

Let's begin April with an inspiring and heart warming story of a girl - one of our brightest shining stars and a girl of determination, vigor and strength.

More Opportunities for the Children and Their Families

Anjali lost her mother when she was nine years old. She and her older brother were left in the care of their daily waged father. He worked long hours with no definite time of return and the two children were left to fend for themselves all day long. Eventually, their father decided to re-marry for the sake of his children. What came next was least expected - Anjali was separated from the family and into institutional care because of her father's meager income.

Sadly, this is the story of thousands of children ending up in institutional care every year.
